SCOUTS URGED TO ENROLL IN R. C. CLASSES

Scouts and scouters were urged to take advantage of the Red Cross swimming and junior life saving courses to be offered free this summer, Monday evening at the June meeting of the Black Walnut district committee at the Hotel Gettysburg.

Snead Cliff, scout field executive, pointed out that a number of troops lack facilities, including both pools and trained instructors, to enable scouts to qualify on swimming requirements for advancement within their troops.

The free instruction to be offered at the Battleground swimming pool here in the Crouse pool at Littlestown and elsewhere in the county where facilities are available will give scouts an opportunity they would not otherwise find.

Camp Site Not Yet Ready

Mr. Cliff announced also that the new scout camp site near Dillsburg probably cannot be used this season because of the delay in construction work. Wet weather delayed the first operation—road building—and has made it impossible to get heavy machinery to the camp site to start work on the swimming pool and the building of the mess halls and other structures.

He said final decision will be reached at an area executive board meeting on Wednesday. Meanwhile Camp Conewago is being considered for the 1947 summer camping program which will extend through five weeks, starting July 6.

O. H. Benson, former national scout executive, presided at Monday's meeting in the absence of District Chairman W. E. Tilberg. Reports were received on the status and activities of the 10 troops in the Black Walnut district. One of the best troop reports was given by the Rev. Floyd A. Carroll for Troop 76, jointly sponsored by the Methodist and Christ Lutheran churches. He said 10 new scouts have been added, 18 merit badge tests were passed at a recent camp and six scouts will enroll at the district camp.

The committee will meet next on September 22.

JENNIE WADE'S STORY IS TOLD TO ROTARIANS

William G. Weaver, operator of the Jennie Wade house, told the history of the only woman killed here during the Battle of Gettysburg to the Gettysburg Rotary club Monday evening at the YWCA.

The house on Baltimore street known as the Jennie Wade house was built in 1820, Weaver said, and came into the possession of J. A. Kitzmiller in 1866. It is still owned by the Kitzmiller family with Mrs. Harold Mumper and Mrs. R. C. Miller, the present owners. In 1901 it became a museum and has been operated continuously as one since.

At the time of the battle the house was a double dwelling with the only structural change made since being the removal of a partition in 1926, making one large room out of two back rooms, Weaver said.

Initiate Two Members

Jennie Wade's sister, Mrs. McClellan, whose brother-in-law, George McClellan, still lives, resided at the Jennie Wade house at the time of the battle, Weaver said. Mrs. McClellan had a three-day old youngster and Jennie Wade's mother had gone to the McClellan home to aid her daughter several days before the battle began. When the troops came here, Jennie Wade left her home on Breckenridge street and joined her sister and mother at what was to become known as the Jennie Wade house.

The family ran out of food and Jennie was baking bread to replenish their supply when a stray bullet killed her at 8:30 a. m., on the third day of the battle. After Weaver had finished his talk, Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent of the National Park here, and William Tyson, of the Rotary club, added anecdotes that they had heard of the Wade house.

Oscar H. Benson reported on the baseball school sponsored by the club which was held here last week. Paul Ecker and Walter Lane were initiated as new members by William Tyson.

Dr. Chester N. Gitt, president, presided at the meeting.

ASK TOWNSHIP TO RECONSIDER SCHOOL PLANS

The Adams County Board of School Directors, at its regular meeting in the county superintendent's office in the court house Monday night, voted to send back to the Freedom township school directors the latter's application for the approval of two one-room schools, with the request that the township directors reconsider their action.

The Freedom township application was made prior to passage of a new state law providing reimbursement for the tuition of elementary pupils, and the county directors suggested that the application be reconsidered in view of the passage of this law, and the possibility it provided for making other school arrangements in the township.

It was pointed out that under the new law it would be possible for the township to either grade its schools, or provide transportation to other schools and receive tuition reimbursement.

Ask "Refresher" Courses

The county directors discussed the new salary setup for teachers, as provided in the state law just enacted, and adopted a motion to have the county superintendent's office send letters to all the county teachers suggesting to them that they take steps to improve their services through attendance at summer schools or workshops.

With the grading of schools and provisions for better pay for teachers, the directors felt that they would be justified in asking the teachers to take "refresher" or other courses. Before the pay increase bill passed, teachers in many instances were unable to afford such courses, or were forced to work during the summer to augment their incomes. It was pointed out.

The board discussed the question of obtaining a new school office secretary, without reaching a decision. Superintendent J. Floyd Slaybaugh, who presided at the meeting, said that Mrs. Arthur Taylor, who has been acting temporarily as secretary, desired to leave July 1, and the office has been unable to obtain a secretary for the salary provided by the county commissioners.

At Cambridge, in southwest Nebraska, where 13 persons were drowned in Sunday's flash flood, the search continued for four bodies. Nine already have been recovered. Two drownings near Miller, Neb., and a tornado death near Oxford, Neb., left Nebraska with a weekend toll of 16.

GOP 'GETS EVEN' FOR TAX BILL

Washington, June 24 (AP)—Partly to get even with southern Democrats who helped kill their tax bill, the Republican leadership today crammed an anti-poll tax bill onto the House schedule for passage this session.

Chairman Lecompte (R-Iowa) of the House Administration committee got the sign from GOP leaders. He told a reporter hearings will begin next week and a bill will be approved in plenty of time for House action before Congress quits around the end of July.

Two Republican chiefs who asked that their names not be used said the bill definitely will be passed. Republicans traditionally have gone along with the idea of outlawing payment of poll taxes as a requirement of voting in federal elections.

But Rep. Landis (R-Ind.) said there is something else behind the plan now.

"Since some of the Southerners opposed us on taxes, the idea is to put 'em on the spot," he told newsmen. "And if the Senate had not overridden the labor bill veto, we probably would have got out an anti-lynching bill."

Scotch To Go On Sale In Pa. Stores

Harrisburg, June 24 (AP)—The state liquor control board will place 4,500 cases of Scotch whisky on state stores shelves Friday, and sell it to individual purchasers on the basis of first come first served.

The board announced that the sale will continue until the Scotch is all sold, with all state stores except those in the Pittsburgh area having limited supplies. In Pittsburgh a trucking strike may force the board to set a later date for a Scotch sale in that city.

SCHOOL IS SOLD

The Edge Grove school was closed in 1943 and Fairview in 1945.

Chester, Pa., June 24 (AP)—Swimming in the Chester river was banned by city health officials after the stream was cited as the source of Chester's first case of typhoid fever in five years.

Laboratory tests showed the river "contains heavy pollution of typhoid fever germs," McCarey said.

PLANT CLOSED BY YORK FIRM

York, Pa., June 24 (AP)—York Industries, Inc., successor to the world-famous York Safe & Lock company, announced today it will shut down its plant and go out of business.

A spokesman for Albert M. Greenfield and company, Philadelphia, which is arranging the details, said the real estate is being offered for $1,200,000 and plant machinery at "somewhat more than $7,000,000."

He added that in all likelihood, the purchaser of the machinery at an auction July 22-23 will have an opportunity to buy the real estate.

York Safe & Lock Co. was operated successfully for 55 years by the late S. Porry Laucks, who evolved the wartime "York Plan," of industry cooperation and sub-contracting on which much of the United States war production was based.

Laucks died in April 1942, and the Chase National bank, as executor of the estate, took over operation of the company.

The bank subsequently sold 8,890 of the 10,000 shares of stock to a group of New England and New York men. In January, 1944, the navy seized the concern because of what it said were "unsatisfactory management conditions" and retained possession until the end of the war.

The new owners changed the name to York Industries, Inc., after the navy stepped out and began making plastics machinery. The president is Harry Levine of Leominster, Mass.

ASK TOWNSHIP

$1200 a year for the secretary's salary, and have refused to increase the amount.

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Robert A. Bream said that the county office was in need of a secretary of the executive type who could take charge of the office and assist the superintendent and assistant superintendent in many routine matters calling for executive ability.

Requests made to township school boards for contributions for the secretarial fund have been partially successful, the superintendent reported.

School Nursing Report
Dr. Bream reported that a total of $3,721 was contributed to the school nurse fund during the past year, including $2,885 from various clubs and organizations, $786 by school districts and individuals, and $50 in a refund on one nurse's salary. The fund has a surplus which the board voted to use for the purchase of supplies. In addition, $158.17 has been paid by the state for the work done by the school nurses on state exams, and more is expected.

Under the new law, the state will take over the payment of school nurses, Dr. Bream said, but no provision was made in the law for the nursing program in parochial schools. Under the county program, started last year, both public and parochial schools were serviced.

taking advantage of our trustfulness to milk us of every fact, method or discovery that can help the U.S.S.R. in its rivalry with us." Mr. Johnson, whose article is condensed from Plain Talk, is author of many works on secret intelligence.

Aided by fellow travelers, the Russians are using every trick they were caught using in Canada, but on a far larger scale, Johnson says. The foundations of their spy systems were laid during the war, when, as "Allies," some 3,300 Russian members of military and industrial missions, "including many experts posing as underlings," visited factories, laboratories, and testing grounds. They were denied little save the atomic secret. Now that secret is the Soviet agents' main objective. Information is sought, too, on our new bombers, radar, stockpiles of strategic materials, guided missiles, and defense plans for the Panama Canal

Leaders of Russian espionage in America are frequently changed, Johnson says, "partly to confuse our authorities, partly to give more Russians experience in America." Communists claim that for every actual party member ten more are ready to do the party's work, a statement confirmed by J. Edgar Hoover, head of FBI. That would mean, the author observes, "an army of 750,000 regulars and guerrillas, mostly secret."

Containing that conviction for espionage is difficult under our laws, Johnson urges a force of scouts in foreign countries to check on "backgrounds and motives" of all who seek to come here, and to deny them access to America when necessary.

The survey also showed badly worn brake lining on one car out of two, leakage in the hydraulic braking system on one out of three and scored brake drums on one out of three.

TIGERS COULD MAKE GOOD USE OF GREENBERG

By JOE REICHLER

(By The Associated Press)

Currently closer to the cellar than they are to the top, loyal Detroit followers couldn't help but ponder whether their clueless Tigers wouldn't be in a higher position today if they still had last year's American league home run king, Hank Greenberg.

With Pat Mullin, their early season sensation, slumping to a below .300 mark, no one on the Tigers can match Greenberg's figures.

A year ago today, Greenberg had clouted 16 home runs for the Tigers, almost half Detroit's entire total of 35 this season. That was the big reason besides the brilliant pitching of Hal Newhouse why the Tigers were in third place, four full games ahead of this year's fifth place pace.

10th Straight Defeat
The faltering Tigers could put together only two runs on six hits yesterday as they went down to their 10th straight defeat when the Boston Red Sox walloped them, 8-2, at Fenway Park behind Benny Galehouse, their recent acquisition from the St. Louis Browns.

The victory enabled the second place Red Sox to remain two games behind the front running New York Yankees who defeated the Cleveland Indians, 8-5, at the Yankee Stadium.

The White Sox continued to plague the Washington Senators by defeating them for the ninth time in 10 meetings 10-6 in a night game at Washington. Bob Kennedy's three-run homer highlighted a seven-run ninth inning against Early Wynn and enabled veteran Thornton Lee to walk off with the decision. The win enabled the Sox to replace the Nats in sixth place.

Cards Are Red Hot
With Enos Slaughter batting in four runs and Terry Moore getting two hits in his first two times at bat to extend his hitting streak to nine straight, the red hot St. Louis Cardinals trounced the National league leading Boston Braves 6-2 in a night game at St. Louis.

The win advanced the fifth place Cardinals to within a game and a half of the first division and three and a half games from first place. The Braves' first place lead was reduced to one game over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers, who were idle.

The Chicago Cubs handed Mort Cooper his second straight losing since the veteran righthander joined the Giants by shelling him from the mound with a four-run seventh and defeated the Giants, 6-3. The win moved the Cubs to within a half game of the third place Giants.

In addition to the Dodgers, the Philadelphia Phillies, Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates were idle in the National league. Philadelphia and St. Louis in the American league had a day off.

Steelers Sign Up Four More Players

Pittsburgh, June 24 (AP)—Four more gridders, two of them recruits, have signed contracts to play for the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National football league, who open training camp drills at Cambridge Springs, Pa., next August 4.

The newcomers are halfback Walter Slater, former university of Tennessee star purchased from the Philadelphia Eagles, and Bryant Meeks, former South Carolina university center. Meeks was fifth draft choice of the club last December.

The veterans returning from the Steelers' 1946 squad are Tony Compagno, first string fullback, and Joe Repko, a tackle.

DiMaggio Leading In Player Popularity

Chicago, June 24 (AP)—Votes for Joe DiMaggio, slugging New York Yankee center fielder, continued to pour in today, boosting his lead over Enos Slaughter of the St. Louis Cardinals as Champion choice of the fans in balloting for starting lineups for the all-star baseball game in Wrigley field July 8.

DiMaggio has polled 429,184 nominations, as the total vote in the poll, which ends at midnight Thursday, soared to 1,019,998. DiMaggio led Slaughter by 6,580. Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox left fielder, held third with 416,288, while Lou Boudreau, manager-shortstop of the Cleveland Indians, current American league batting leader, moved from fifth to fourth place with 410,327.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Detroit, June 24 (AP)—Word

brought back here from Denver is that Baseball fans in this area can look for some good games at Kalama-zoo this week-end when California plays Yale for the National collegiate title. "That California is a real good team and sports writers out there said it showed up western league ball," reported one observer, who admitted the western league in its first season probably isn't up to ordinary class "A" standards. The same gent also spilled a lot of enthusiasm about Bobby Layne, the Texas pitcher who lost his first game this season after two were out in the ninth inning of the western playoff final. Layne had laid off after the regular Texas season finished about a month ago and wasn't in top shape but he did a terrific job of relief pitching. In fact, the only thing our informant didn't like about that series was the weather.

GIVING IT A TWIST

Some Wisconsin baseball fans are planning a big day for Johnny Schmitz, the Cubs pitcher, this summer and want to give him a new car. The catch is that Johnny doesn't know how to drive one. . . . and the other day when Boston fans presented a shotgun to Ted Williams, who already has plenty of them, Ted took it, looked around and asked: "Now, where's Lou Boudreau?"

TEE TIME

Don't be surprised if there's a big turnover in the PGA official family before long. . . . Jim Ferrier, who's a good bet to win the PGA title today, virtually was forced into pro golf. When he came from Australia he was an amateur, but he wrote a book on golf. As a result the USGA refused to accept his entry for the 1940 amateur championship and he decided if he was going to be called a pro, he might as well get the cash.

The Gettysburg Times

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Wedding Bells: Dougherty—Troxe: On Thursday evening (June 24) at eight o'clock, a very quiet, but pretty wedding occurred at the hospitable home of Mr. David Troxe, on York street. The contracting parties being his daughter, Miss Susie A., and Mr. Charles B. Dougherty, both of this place. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. J. Barkley, D. D.

Owing to the recent death of the bride's mother, only a few of the relatives and immediate friends were present to witness the ceremony.

The fair bride was elegantly attired in white organdie, trimmed with lace and ribbon, and carried a bouquet of white lilies, the groom wore the customary conventional black.

The happy couple are two of Gettysburg's most popular young people. The groom has been for a number of years the obliging head clerk in the dry goods store of G. W. Spangler. For several years the bride has been the efficient and accurate cashier for G. W. Weaver and Son.

On the following evening Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty will give a reception at their new home on York street.

Marriages: Bream—Day—May 27 at Bendersville, by Rev. Wm. Kiegle, Harry L. Bream, of Huntington township, to Miss Rosa E. Day, of Menallen township.

Fickel—Beitman—June 24, at Idaville, by Rev. W. H. Settemyer, Edwin Francis Fickel, to Miss Florence Elizabeth Beitman, both of Huntington township.

Fitzgerald—Wertz—June 14, at New Chester, by Rev. G. M. Ketter, Geo. T. Fitzgerald, to Miss Hester R. S. Wertz, both of Straban township.

Johnson—Deardoff—June 23, at the bride's home, by Rev. D. T. Koser, Charles M. Johnson to Miss Annie B. Deardoff, both of Franklin township.

The Great Wallace Show: The Great Wallace Show, which is acknowledged to be America's greatest exhibition for amusement, visited our town on Monday, giving two entertainments, one in the afternoon, the other in the evening. When the parade started about 10:30 a. m., hundreds of people lined the side walks. Early in the morning the "country cousins" began dropping in on their "city friends" just to spend the day and see the elephant.

The parade was a grand affair, consisting of many beautiful wagons, handsome horses, open dens of wild beasts, three bands of music accompanying the parade, with a large number of equestrians.

The performance in the afternoon was witnessed by more than 3,000 people, and in the evening by at least 2,000. From the grand entrance to the last of the exciting hippodrome races, the audience witnessed the grandest circus performance ever given in the county.

Local Miscellany: The Fiftieth Anniversary, the Golden Jubilee, of St. Joseph's Academy, McSherrystown, was celebrated with interesting exercises on Thursday afternoon, which were attended by a large gathering of people from home and abroad.

Nearly everyone was awakened and shocked by a very loud clap of thunder on Tuesday night, about 2:45 o'clock a. m., which caused houses to shake and windows to rattle by its sudden violence. Lightning struck the trotting stock on the Meadow Valley farm, killing one horse, and striking four colts, rendering them deaf and blind.

Personal Mention: Mrs. Wm. F. Codori and children are visiting her mother Mrs. S. J. Diller, in Hanover.

Twelve members of the Gettysburg Equestrian and Bicycle club, including Messrs. H. F. Buehler, J. R. Scott, D. P. McPherson, John A. Cox, Alex. O'Neal, John Keith, Mrs. John A. Cox, Mrs. W. H. O'Neal, Misses Virgie O'Neal, B. Stevenson,

Today's Talk

THE TALK OF LEAVES

I wonder what it is that makes trees so intimate to us! Nearly always they are in movement. The oak, the maple, the evergreen—each has a voice of its own—many times being but a faint whisper. But there is music there, just the same. The nervous trembling of the aspen or birch leaves a lingering, poetic breath in the memory.

Not only is there the fascinating sound of rustling, like fine silk, to the wind-swept pines, but there is the aroma, delicately pungent. For hours I have watched the beautiful shadows cast by the tropic palms, upon a clear night, against white walls and the green earth. But their swishing talk is unique. Soothing and rhythmic.

Every leaf of every tree has its own language, intimately clustered together, touching and bending, reflecting the sunlight, restless, but at most times in movement, or in leaf-conversation. Each one washed by the rain, kissed by the sunlight, or exercised by the waft of the wind. And how beautiful each variety of a thorn, or sturdy leaf to act as windbreak. I have come across some exquisite flowers, so intricately protected against plucking that great care had to be exercised against finger injury. As though Nature intended that its beauty and fragrance should remain undisturbed—radiating its beauty and fragrance to its end.

There is a mail-carrier poet in New Jersey who always leaves a pressed leaf with his card or signature. This leaf and the mere signature of "Bucky" leaves more to the thought than any quotation could possibly express. That leaf tells you of the inner consciousness of the happy worker and poet. It talks!

There is not a leaf that cannot be translated into some phase or term of life. Beauty, form, plan, significance—and miracle—are all there.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "A Consuming Purpose."

THE ONLY WAY

My father was a simple man.
He said: "The only way he knew
Was this—to do the best you can
With any task you're asked to do."

"You'll never know unless you learn,
For knowledge is by study gained.
And skill is something you must earn;
By practice only it's attained."

"You'll never move while standing still
Or reach a goal by stopping short.
A pint of effort never will
Be worth as much as is the quart."

"Improve yourself!" my father said,
"That surely will improve your pay.
Work hard and you will get ahead;
Believe me, there's no other way."

Observe National

Foot Comfort Week
National Foot Comfort week, observed throughout the United States, will continue for another week, with many shoe stores providing special displays and demonstrations.

The United States Public Health Service recently issued a statement in which it said that nine out of ten of this country's population have some form of foot trouble.

Average corn production per acre in the United States has risen from around 26 to 27 bushels before 1939 to more than 35 bushels.

NEW LABOR ACT IS FOLLOWED BY MINE WALKOUTS

Pittsburgh, June 24 (AP)—A wave of wildcat strikes which began shortly after the Senate overrode President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill had closed at least 56 soft coal mines in five states today, idling more than 31,000 workers.

Daily coal tonnage loss was unofficially estimated at more than 100,000 tons.

Alabama had 12 mines closed with 6,000 idle, Pennsylvania 28 mines and 20,000 men, West Virginia 9 mines, 2,625 men, Ohio 3 mines, 1,500 men, and Illinois 4 mines employing 1,700 Progressive Mine Workers.

The walkouts, apparently a spontaneous protest against passage of the labor bill, came at a time when wage negotiations between John L. Lewis, President of the AFL-United Mine Workers' 400,000 members, and the mine operators had been broken off pending final disposition of the bill.

Begin Vacation Early
Meanwhile, the miners had been prepared to begin a 10-day vacation at Friday midnight, just three days before the expiration of the interim contract of the UMW and the federal government, signed in May, 1947, to end a strike which began when management and union failed to negotiate an agreement.

One mine company spokesman said it was unlikely a new contract would be signed by July 8, the day the miners are scheduled to end their vacation, and that it was probable there would be some "confusion" in the coal fields then. He said he referred to the miners' long-time slogan of "no contract, no work."

The walkouts, jumping the vacation deadline by four or five days, were reported first from Alabama, where at least a dozen mines, including the two largest in the state, were shut down. They included most of the so-called "captive mines," those which furnish fuel for making steel and iron.

Spread to Pennsylvania

Hence the strikes spread quickly to southwestern Pennsylvania, where once again "captive" mines were hit in Fayette, Greene and Washington counties. One central Pennsylvania mine—in Somerset county—also was shut down.

Ten mines fell idle in West Virginia, and at midnight workers failed to report at three mines in southeastern Ohio.

Conflicting reports from Virginia indicated some mines idle there, also, but UMW officials said they had received no word on the reported closings—at four mines in Lee and Wise counties. W. F. Minton, chairman of UMW District 28, which covers most of Virginia's 16,000 miners, said he was "insisting" that all union members in his area work today.

At most points, UMW officers answered queries with a brief "no comment."

At Cumberland, Md., however, an unidentified UMW spokesman said: "Await Court Test."

"The boys are very bitter about the slave-labor law, but we have planned no action here. The new law will probably be tested in court actions as a result of labor's protest in many places."

Dave Fowler of Muskogee, Okla., president Arkansas-Oklahoma UMW District 21, said members there would observe the new law but would start work at once for changes in Congress in 1948.

The current walkouts were the second protest strike within two weeks against the Taft-Hartley bill. The first stoppage, originating in southwestern Pennsylvania, was led by miners who called on the entire UMW to strike against the bill.

About 15,000 miners quit work for five days, returning to work after union leaders made newspaper and radio appeals.

WILL REPLAY GAME

Pittsburgh, June 24 (AP)—A Pittsburgh Pirates game with the Philadelphia Phillies, cut short Sunday because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew, will be replayed September 16, Pirate officials announced.

The curfew halted the game, nightcap of a doubleheader, at 7 p. m. at the end of the fourth inning with the Pirates ahead, 8-6.

Uphold Verdict For Land Seized

Pittsburgh, June 24 (AP)—A jury verdict awarding $4,000 damages to Mrs. Nancy Kerr for 3/10 of an acre of land taken by the government for flood control purposes at New Alexandria, Westmoreland county, was upheld yesterday in federal district court.

Judge Nelson McVicar denied the government's motion for a new trial on grounds the court should have admitted that Mrs. Kerr had been offered easement rights across the property to the remainder of her property.

Judge McVicar said the verdict was not excessive.

NO FUNDS FOR OLEO REFUNDS

By LEONARD A. UNGER

Harrisburg, June 24 (AP)—The 1947 Legislature failed to provide the commonwealth $2,500,000 for refunds of oleomargarine license fees declared unconstitutional by the state Supreme Court last December 21.

"That leaves the oleo retailers and wholesalers holding the bag because we can't give them the money if we don't have it," a spokesman for the governor's office told a reporter.

The money is due more than 12,000 dealers who may under the law file claims for license fees paid in the five years prior to the court decision.

The court ruled out as "confiscatory" a section of a 1901 law which imposed license fees of $100 for retailers, $500 for wholesalers and $1,000 for manufacturers.

Money For 1947 Only
The Assembly included, however, in the general appropriations bill an allocation of $300,000 to be refunded to dealers who paid 1947 license fees in advance of the court ruling. The money will be returned through the Treasury Department's Board of Finance and Revenue when Gov. James H. Duff signs the appropriation bill.

Meanwhile, the governor's approval also was awaited on new legislation imposing a $2 license fee for oleomargarine retailers and wholesalers and continuing to prohibit the coloring of margarine before sale.

Replacing the 1901 law, the measure has the backing of the state Agriculture Department which claimed at a public legislative hearing a license fee was necessary to police the oleomargarine industry.

NEW LAW HITS CLOSED SHOPS, PAY DEDUCTION

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 24 (AP)—What does the new labor law mean to you if you're not a member of a union but are looking for a job?

Nothing at all, of course, if you get a job where there is no union. But suppose there is a union where you go job-hunting. What then? That depends upon the kind of contract the boss there has with a union.

There is a thing called "preferential hiring." That's where a boss can hire non-union men but must give first choice to a union man, if one is available.

Most lawyers think the new law forbids this. They're not positive. So the subject of preferential hiring may have to be fought out in court.

For the time being, therefore, if you look for a job where there's "preferential hiring" the union man probably will get the job ahead of you.

Firing Not Compulsory
Suppose you look for a job where there is a union shop.

In a union shop the boss can hire non-union men but they must join the union after working there a certain time.

Once you get a job in a union shop and join the union, you must stay in it. If you quit the union, the boss has to fire you.

But suppose the union expels you, perhaps through someone's grudge or because you made trouble in the union.

Under the new law the boss doesn't have to fire you if you're expelled from a union for any cause except failing to pay your dues.

(Until now the boss had to fire you if you were expelled from a union in a union shop for any reason.)

But the new law has something else to say about union shops.

There can be no union shop at all unless a majority of all the workers in the shop—not just those present at voting time—vote for it.

Until now if a minority of the workers were present at voting time, a majority of the minority could vote for a union shop and get it. Suppose you go looking for work where there is a closed shop.

In a closed shop not only must all the workers there be union members but any new worker must be a union member before he's hired.

There are many closed shops now. And the new law permits closed shop contracts now in existence to continue until they expire.

Closed Shops Outlawed
The new law went into effect yesterday, June 23. Under that law employers can sign closed shop agreements with unions between June 23 and August 22, or sixty days after the law went into effect.

But any contract signed between now and August 22 can't continue longer than one year. Then, in that plant, as in all others, a closed shop is outlawed.

So, if you go looking now for a job in a place where there is a closed shop, you can't get a job right now unless you're a union member.

Suppose you're working in a plant where you are a union member and the boss deducts your union dues from your paycheck and turns them over to the union.

This arrangement—it's part of a contract between some bosses and some unions—is called the automatic check-off of dues.

Until now the individual union member might not have liked that system, but he couldn't do anything about it if it was in the union contract.

It's different under the new law. Now the boss can't deduct your dues from your paycheck unless you tell him to in writing.

Chapter 32

Pedrick pushed the papers back and leaned back in his chair.

"Yeah," he said, "I expect that's what you have. Got anything in mind to do about it?"

"I've got a lead," said Rush. "It may take some pressure but I think I can make it come through."

"What have you got?" asked Pedrick.

"You remember I asked you about a guy named Wellwood, a lawyer?"

Pedrick nodded.

"King Wellwood. I wondered what you wanted with him."

"He's my lead. Through a bit of fairly naive trickery I learned that he is the man who hired me to come to Forge City."

Pedrick came forward in his chair.

"King Wellwood!" he exploded.

"What in the world would he hire you for?"

"Oh, I'm quite sure he didn't hire me for himself. He hired me for the guy I keep calling X."

Pedrick relaxed back into his chair.

"Are you sure?" he asked.

"It's a cinch," said Rush. "He made the deal all right. The big point is can I get him to tell me who X is. He can hide behind ethics and legal privilege till hell freezes over if he wants to. However, if I can convince him that his client is going around knocking off people sort of ad lib maybe he'll come through. What do you think?"

Pedrick scratched his head for a moment then let his hand fall into his lap.

"I don't know, Rush. I don't know what King would say. I'm pretty sure he'd be amazed at my story. He couldn't afford to be mixed up in something like that person-ally. In the first place he's above money and in the second he has an old family name to protect. I'm inclined to believe that he might at least hint a little."

Rush stood up.

"Okay," he said. "That's what I wanted to know. I'll go see him."

"Wait a minute," said Pedrick.

"Sit down."

Rush came back and stood behind his chair. Pedrick looked up at him with a friendly smile.

"Is it really necessary to see Wellwood, Rush?"

Rush shook his head.

"Not really," he said. "Just need a little confirmation."

Pedrick nodded with a satisfied air as though something he had predicted had happened.

"I thought you had it pretty well taped. I guess I'll have to ask you to put up your hands."

Pedrick's hands came up from his lap. In his right hand was a .45 service revolver. Rush smiled slowly and raised his hands above his shoulders.

"Sorry, old boy," said Pedrick. "I hate to do this." He sounded very truthful. "I was afraid of it all the time. I thought maybe I could handle you at first but when I got to know you I knew it would end this way."

"What way is that, Matt?" asked Rush.

"Why, nobody hates the melodra-matic more than I do, but I'm afraid you're for it. There's no other way out."

"The only trouble is that you can't cover this one like you did the others, Matt. A lot of people know I'm here and a lot of others know of my lead to King Wellwood. They'll get around to you," Rush said evenly.

"I've got that figured out. I've decided that you're going to commit suicide. That'll be a tacit admission that you knocked off the other boys. I'll take the credit for driving you to it, of course. I'll say that the gun in your room was a bit of double cover. You put it there and called the cops on the grounds that no-body would believe you were dumb enough to do such a thing. I think I've even got Wellwood figured out. I'll say that you asked me to ask Wellwood to hire you. Your excuse was that a friend of yours lost his shirt gambling in Forge City and you wanted to clean up the town. I'll say that I began to be suspicious of you when the killings started. I finally decided that you wanted to take over the town in place of the men running it. That way my mo-tives become your motives and everything that points at me will point at you."

Rush grinned.

"Very neat," he said. "You might even make it stick. I like that about your motives becoming my motives. Very good. What I can't figure is why you had the motives in the first place. You look like a guy who had everything. What are you miss-ing that you want a town like Forge City?"

"That's a tough question, Rush. I've asked myself often. I think I have it figured out. I came with a built-in urge for power. Under ordi-nary circumstances I expect I'd have made out by running a busi-ness of some kind and bullying my employees, but I was a kind of sickly youth and I got pushed around more than a little. Bulls used to work out on me every time things got a little slow. I could have told my dad and he could have stopped it but I swal-lowed it and waited."

"It's a funny thing," he repeated.

"I didn't plan to kill Beau Marr at all. The idea of killing anybody never occurred to me for a minute. Then that night of the party I all at once thought what would hap-pen if he were dead. So I killed him. It's as simple as that. Do you understand a little of that, Rush?"

For the first time there was a faint trace of emotion in his voice.

"I understand all of it, Matt," said Rush slowly. "I think that there isn't a doubt in the world that with my testimony you could win a sanity plea hands down."

"I expect I could. I think I'm

SCHOOL BOARDS BEGIN FIGURING TEACHER RAISES

By MARTIN BRACKBILL
Harrisburg, June 24 (AP)—Pennsylvania school boards, holding off decisions on next year's budgets pending legislative action on the state's new teacher pay plan, started figuring today how the new program will affect local costs.

The measure, approved by the General Assembly and awaiting Gov. James H. Duff's action, set up a new mandated scale of $1,950 to $3,400 outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and allocated $173,000,000 as the Commonwealth's share of the cost.

In addition, the legislature passed a bill granting school boards and other local taxing bodies authority for the first time to enact levies on wages, sales, incomes, amusements and other things as well as taxes on real estate.

Poor Districts Benefit
The proposed new school law would base state grants next year on the basis of $2,200 a teaching unit and a local effort rate of six mills against the 1945-46 schedule of $1,800 and five mills. No school district, however, would receive less than $700 a unit nor a smaller grant than was apportioned in the last school year.

Largest increases in appropriations under the new schedule will go to poorer districts, a digest of the measure drafted by state education officials showed.

A district with $10,000 of assessed valuation a teaching unit would receive an increase of $390 a teaching unit; while one with a valuation of $200,000 a unit would get only $200 a unit more. A typical district which has $60,000 of assessed valuation per unit would receive an increase of $340.

Explain Computation
State authorities explained that the probable increase in state subsidies payable in 1947-48 "can be readily calculated" by local school officials by subtracting the yield of a one mill tax upon the district's assessed valuation per teaching unit from $400.

As an example, they cited a district with a $60,000 assessed valuation could raise $60 by imposition of a one mill tax and that $60 subtracted from $400 equals $340. A teaching unit is equal under state law to 22 students in average daily membership in a high school or 30 pupils attending an elementary school.

While the maximum subsidy present school year will be $2,200 a unit, it will increase under the proposed law to $2,300 in the 1947-48 school year; $2,400 in 1948-49; $2,500 in 1949-50; and $2,600 in 1950-51. The minimum also will increase to $800 in 1948-49.

May Withhold Approval
The new program also provides that a school district's assessed valuation be used for computing state grants until a new system for equalization of the values of real property throughout the Commonwealth as proposed in another new law is established.

The measure retains authority for the Governor to decide when a provision in present law crediting all one-room schools with at least one teaching unit regardless of the number of pupils shall become inoperative.

At that time, the state council of education would have authority to withhold its approval of such schools unless distance or condition of roads make transportation of pupils to another school impractical, it is impossible to accommodate the pupils in other schools, or the district is financially unable to build a consolidated school.
